

FLARE WAS THERE

SPECIAL!

PRETTY IN PINK
NATALIE PORTMAN
IN LANVIN

A photograph of Natalie Portman walking on a red carpet. She is wearing a strapless, knee-length dress with a vibrant pink and purple floral pattern. The dress has a large, textured floral detail at the bust. She is also wearing dark high-heeled shoes. The background is filled with photographers and bright camera flashes, creating a busy, high-energy atmosphere. The text 'ALL STAR STYLE' is overlaid in large white letters across the center of the image.

THE LEADING LADY
PENÉLOPE CRUZ

Hours before she walked the TIFF red carpet for her latest movie, Broken Embraces, Cruz talked to us about the power of style and substance—something the Oscar-winning actress says is always top of mind. "It's a very hard balance but [Broken Embraces director] Pedro Almodóvar manages to make his aesthetics as rich as his stories. His combination of the two makes him such a genius and one of the greatest directors of all time."

THE TRANSFORMER
LILY COLE

Cast in one of the few fantasy-driven films at TIFF—The Imaginarium of Doctor Parnassus—alongside Johnny Depp, Colin Farrell and the late Heath Ledger, London-based model-turned-actress Cole held her own against an A-list cast. Her tenure on the catwalk prepped Cole for the intense theatrics of a movie. "The most epic runway show I've ever walked in was for Christian Dior couture in Versailles last year. The clothes in Parnassus aren't quite as glamorous," she told FLARE, explaining the difference between her two careers. "While I'm modeling, there is a degree of role-playing, but if I'm acting I've got to be emotionally committed to a character—both physically and intellectually."

TREND: CHIC SHADES

THE STAND OUT
EMILY BLUNT

Her star turn as Queen V. in the much-buzzed-about royal biopic, The Young Victoria, was as big of a hit at TIFF as Blunt's Christian Dior frock on the red carpet. In the movie, however, Blunt wears pieces that she told FLARE, "helped transform and transport" her into Queen Victoria's early reign. "That was up until the point when my ribs gave out on me," Blunt confessed, recalling the tight corsets famed costumer Sandy Powell had her don during pivotal scenes. "Then, I just wanted to wear my pajamas."

TREND: MAJOR TEXTURE

THE IT GIRL
AMANDA SEYFRIED

After she walked the red carpet in vintage Chanel for Atom Egoyan's latest film, Chloe, Seyfried, who starred in mega blockbuster Mamma Mia!, told us she had a cinematic epiphany. "I felt like a new person after being [Chloe]. It's like I've climbed up a mountain I've built for myself. This role and movie have definitely put me into a different realm." Judging by the critical acclaim her performance has since garnered—and the fact that Seyfried is slated to be in two films next year—we think her new outlook is working for her.
